Former School Head Guest Of Friends Here

Prof. George A. Dickson is back in New Castle today, here for a short visit among the people he served for so many years as an educator. To those who were not in the schools of New Castle before 1919 this may not mean so much, but to those students who attended between 1903 and 1919 an old friend has returned.

With his wife he is visiting friends and relatives in the east and expects to go on to Philadelphia from here. Since leaving New Castle he has been located in Oceanside, Calif., where for a time he was engaged in educational work, but has been retired for several years. Prof. and Mrs. Dickson arrived in New Castle Friday afternoon and were guests upon arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz.

Prof. Dickson came to New Castle in 1903 as principal of the high school. To the students he was affectionately known as "The King" for he ran his school like a benevolent monarch. (Continued On Page Two)

World's Fair Is Opened At Chicago Today

Thousands Of Persons Jam World's Fair Grounds As Gates Swing Open

BIGGEST SPECTACLE
OF MODERN TIMES

Century Of Progress Exposition
Will Remain Open Until November

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, May 27.—A nation's $27,000,000 slap in the face of adversity, a Century of Progress International Exposition, snapped up all barriers today and invited the world to come and see the greatest show on earth.

A sizeable percentage of the population accepted that cordial invitation on opening day. Millions, nobody can estimate accurately how many of them, will be counted by the turnstiles' eccentric eyes before the world fair closes on November 1.

Life. Yesterday. Today. Tomorrow. That's the keynote of the whole gargantuan exposition, and the sponsors of this self-supporting world fair found innumerable devious and direct angles of approach to their enthralling subject.

Gates Are Opened
At 8:30 a. m. (C. D. T.) promptly guards in the resplendent red and blue uniforms of a Century of Progress, threw open the gates, greeted by resounding shouts of approval from the long queues of visitors, many of whom had waited for hours before the entrances.

The thousands of arriving visitors found the metropolis in holiday array with flags and bunting decorating skyscrapers, boulevards and shops. It was a general holiday throughout the city by proclamation of Mayor Edward J. Kelly. All the courts were closed as was the city hall and county buildings so the public employees could swell the opening day multitude.

A doctor was summoned, but he passed away a few minutes after his arrival. He had been troubled with high blood pressure but it is believed that his death was caused by acute indigestion which affected his heart.

Coming Issues Of Bonds Cause Gold Legislation

Speaker Rainey Explains
Measure To Repeal
Gold Clause

PAVING WAY FOR HUGE BOND ISSUES

Payment In Gold Provision
To Be Stricken Out
By Legislation

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 27.—Legislation repealing the gold clause in all public and private bonds was precipitated by the fact that the government will issue five to six billion dollars of bonds in the near future, Speaker Henry T. Rainey said today.

In addition to the $3,300,000,000 bonds carried in the industrial recovery bill, the treasury has announced that from $1,500,000,000 to $1,900,000,000 additional bonds will be issued to finance the emergency legislative program.

"We are going to have to issue new bonds and under the law we must print on them that they are payable in gold of a certain standard weight and fineness.

"The legislation means that every dollar, whether a national bank note or the new currency, shall have its value as legal tender.

"We now have $100,000,000,000 of debts in this country payable in gold and there is only $3,500,000,000 gold with which to pay that.

"It is really the law now that these debts can be discharged with currency. (Continued On Page Two)

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
NEW YORK, May 27.—Funny thing about this so-called preferred list that Morgan Co. put out. All of 'em held the stock too long and it died on their hands, so it was really a "sucker list."

New York collected a million dollars yesterday just for beer licenses alone. A state to remain dry nowadays not only has to have will power, but it has to find some mysterious way of getting in some dough. Maybe a state sales tax on everybody will keep it off.

Flying to Chicago tonight to see if this fair looks as big to me as the other one did as a kid. At midnight, when you are asleep, there is 80 airplanes in the air in the country, 40 of 'em carrying passengers.

Yours,
Will Rogers

Resignations Of Two Justices Are Pinchot Demand

Governor Demands Kephart
And Schaffer Quit Supreme Court Posts

HAS NO POWER TO REMOVE THEM

Pinchot Denounces Practices Revealed In Probe of J. P. Morgan Co.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—In a scathing denunciation of the practices of the J. P. Morgan and Company, Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania today demanded that two justices of the state supreme court resign.

His demand was directed at Justices William L. Schaffer and John W. Kephart, who admitted they purchased stock while on the "preferred list" of the Morgan concern.

The governor's statement followed one of a similar nature made by Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman.

"I call upon Justice Kephart and Justice Schaffer to resign," read the governor's statement, released at the executive office here this morning.

"Would Remove Them"
"If I had the power I would remove them at once. The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to courts that are wholly free from the suspicion of secret relations with public utilities, public utility bankers, or the high priests of concentrated wealth."

One of the most shocking revelations in the whole history of public life in this country is told in the newspapers of the last two days. That was a Governor Pinchot's characterization of developments growing out of the U. S. Senate inquiry into the Morgan banking interests.

Under Lid of Big Business
"At last the Morgan investigation lets us look under the lid of big business. And under the lid are men of power and influence in the nation and the state taking secret favors worth large sums of money from Wall Street, from the head center of concentrated wealth in America."

"This is how the money power operates a deliberate plan to put men in all walks of life under obligations. This is the money power in action."

The governor in his statement did not mention the name of Judge Thomas J. Baldrige, a member of the state supreme court, who also was listed as a "preferred" client of the Morgan affiliates. He did, however, include the name of a former chief justice of the supreme court, Robert Von Moschizker.

Police Dragging River For Body Of Young Woman

Pittsburgh Police Drag River
For Suicide Victim, May Be Ball Players Wife

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Police river boats today were dragging the Monongahela river for the body of a young woman, reported to have leaped into the muddy stream from the South Twenty-second street bridge yesterday.

Police claimed that Tommy Thevenow, substitute infielder on the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team, had identified a coat and purse found on the bridge as those of his wife Helen. It was learned, however, that when Thevenow called at the police station to see the articles they were unavailable and that his identification was based on a description given him.

Thevenow revealed that his wife had been missing from home since Wednesday.

Attempts to verify Thevenow's claimed identification were unsuccessful. Thevenow denied himself to reporters and remained at his apartment.

INCOME TAX BATTLE SHIFTS TO SENATE

House Passes President's "Prosperity Bill" Containing Income Tax Boost

Measure Provides Huge Sum
For Public Works—Also Huge Tax Levies

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—President Roosevelt's "Prosperity Bill"—embracing a new deal for industry and the jobless, but providing a heavier tax for the little income taxpayer and the average citizen—was sent to the Senate today after its passage in the House.

The bill, which suspends anti-trust laws to permit combination of industry and labor, carries a $3,300,000,000 public works program and a $700,000,000 tax plan, probably will be called up in the senate late next week.

Opposition Gathers.
Drastic revision of the tax plan in the senate was forecast as a result of revelations in the Morgan inquiry and widespread opposition to harsh increases upon the average citizen.

As passed the bill carried a tax amendment growing directly out of the fact that J. P. Morgan and company paid no income tax for two years.

Under this amendment taxpayers cannot use net losses in one year to offset income taxes in the next. Claims were made by Democratic spokesmen—and disputed—that the provision would curtail the deductions made by the Morgan company if a similar situation arises in the future.

Will Open Hearing.
To quell the rebellion against the tax provisions, the ways and means committee promised to open next week a general investigation of the tax laws to plug up loopholes.

The industrial recovery bill, called the capstone of the president's program, authorizes:

Formation of trade associations to set up codes of fair competition with approval of the president, the codes being designed to fix minimum wages, limit hours of labor and fix other working conditions.

All anti-trust laws in conflict with the provisions are set aside.

Can Close Factory.

(International News Service)

The jury retired at 6 o'clock last night and cast its first ballot four hours later. It was unanimous for acquittal.

Coyne was charged with shooting to death Irene Carbert Coyne, 19 year old bride of his father, aged 66, last February. Coyne's defense was that while scuffling with the best man he grabbed what he thought was a broomstick from behind a door.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—The body of Col. Thomas Halbert Russell, 53, president of Stauton Military Academy, who plunged to his death from the third floor of the Lankenau Hospital here, today was sent to Staunton, Va., for interment.

Colonel Russell, under treatment at the hospital for anemia, low blood pressure and attacks of dizziness, plunged from the window a few minutes after a nurse left him yesterday afternoon. Although hospital authorities were inclined to view his death as accidental, police reported it a suicide.

Colonel Russell was born at Anderson, N. C., and attended Hampden-Sidney College, in Virginia. He became associated with Stauton Military Academy in 1904 and a year later married Margaret Hartman Kable, a daughter of the founder. He spent the remainder of his life at Staunton, becoming president in 1920.

Arthur Mometer

An old time friend dropped in today, a friend of the long ago, for a passing chat of the other days, just to talk and to say hello. And to reminisce of the times that were when we fondly called him the King, when he told us then of the world that was, and what coming years would bring. Not always then did we think him right, and he'd battle us to the end, but always we loved him for what he was, and always we called him friend. Yes, Dickson is back for a little stay, and much as he was before, lovable, witty, belligerent, the weather is seventy four.

Many Fingerprints Taken By Police

The fingerprint department of the New Castle police department is fast becoming one of the most important parts of the work of policing this city.

So far this month, Officer Willis McMullen, in charge of the department, has fingerprinted 47 persons, including the nine persons involved in the Cade death case. Pictures have been taken in most instances. Eleven were fingerprinted in one day, a record so far for the department and six were fingerprinted on Thursday. To date, there have been 347 persons fingerprinted.

That it is most valuable to the police department is indicated by the fact that a report has just been received back from Washington, D. C., on Nelson McCoy, negro, arrested in North Morris way, following a fight and given 30 days in the county jail on suspicion that he had taken $5 from one of the men with whom he was fighting.

The report shows that he was arrested 32 times, mostly in Ohio; and for such crimes as picking pockets and various other violations of the law.

COMING ISSUES OF BONDS CAUSE GOLD LEGISLATION

rence. The supreme court of New York has held that obligations payable in gold can be paid in legal tender.

Week to Week Gold Bank.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—America's gold policy will be working on a week to week basis with developments governing the course to be pursued by the treasury from now on.

Officials today anticipated adoption of the resolution providing elimination of the gold clause in public and private obligations and contracts early next week.

This was the latest development in policy. It was expected to have a stabilizing effect, particularly in cleaning up the confusion that has existed in relation to industrial bonds payable in gold. Under the new legislation these bonds would be paid in any "lawful currency" while gold bonds would be prohibited in the future.

Position Unchanged.

So far as the government is concerned its position is not changed by the resolution, since the country already is off the gold standard and gold payments have been suspended except under treasury license.

Under present law it would be necessary to write a gold clause in the new obligations to be issued June 15. The treasury desires, as a matter of permanent policy, to eliminate the requirement for gold payment. The bonds of foreign countries are payable in gold.

Bill Introduced.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A bill which was announced, is favored by President Roosevelt, permanently abandoning the gold standard, in the United States was introduced in the house Friday afternoon by Chairman Steagall (D) of Alabama, chairman of the house banking committee.

The bill repeals the gold clause in United States and private bonds, and makes all lawful currency applicable to payment of public and private debts.

The bill, it was pointed out, would allow the foreign nations owing the United States $11,000,000,000 to pay their debts in depreciated American currency instead of gold, as now required.

The bill, it was explained, will make it unnecessary for the president to use the power given him in the currency inflation bill to revalue the gold dollar.

Under the measure, Steagall explained, all lawful money can be used to pay any debts to the government. Under present law that form of currency cannot be used to pay taxes or customs duties.

Passage of the bill was characterized by Speaker Rainey of the house as another step in the president's vast rehabilitation program.

"It strengthens the inflation program and will lead to an international agreement to stabilize currency. All nations will now follow us on the gold standard."

Thomas E. Weide.

Succumbing to a series of strokes, which continued during the greater part of three weeks, Thomas E. Weide, of the firm of Weide and Beighley, passed away at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning at the family home, 1132 South Mill street.

Death was due to a complication of ailments, believed to have had their origin in a severe stroke which he suffered in the spring of 1929 and from which he had never fully recovered.

Mr. Weide was born January 28, 1862, in Holden, Mo., the son of John and Missouri Kinsey Weide, pioneer immigrants to that section and spent his boyhood days on his father's farm. Becoming dissatisfied with this vocation, he learned the carpenter trade, and took an active part in the construction of the Turkeyfoot and Washington Oil fields. After his marriage, he lived temporarily at New Cumberland, West Va., and later at Wellsview, O. In the summer of 1902, with the view to providing his children with the educational advantages offered by a superior school system, he chose to make New Castle his permanent home.

Mr. Weide was well and favorably known in the building trades as well as throughout the city and county, having been actively engaged in numerous civic projects during the past twenty years. He served as president of the New Castle Fair Association, also on the Board of Viewers and as assistant to the city assessor, and had been engaged throughout the county, prior to his retirement, from active service.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Katherine R. Weide, a cent monarch. In 1912 he left for two years but was recalled as superintendent of the New Castle schools and served in this capacity until he decided to go west in 1919.

His visit thus far here has been nothing short of a reunion. Students he had as boys and girls are now business and professional men and women, and among the public officials of the city and county are found a host who received their high school education under his direction. The high school in those days was in what is now the East street school.

The years have left untouched that virility and alertness which marked him as an educator here. There never was any question as to what he thought upon any subject, he stated his position briefly and succinctly and was willing to defend it against all comers. But though the students might disagree with him they loved him and the impress he left upon their minds has remained through the years.

Comments Upon Education.

While he has been out of educational work for some years, he still maintains a keen interest in it, with particular reference to the financial side of the picture. "When the boom started," said he, "schoolmaster politicians endeavored to fix themselves permanently in the financial system, with the result that school taxes have now reached the limit. Schoolmen must learn that they also must be deflated along with every other business in the world. This statement is contained in the recent report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teachers."

"Taxes have become so enormous that property owners are losing their homes. In California the state has taken over 550,000 pieces of property and unless times change there will be many thousands more."

Prof. and Mrs. Dickson will be in New Castle for about two weeks and will then go on farther east, stopping at various cities enroute.

Pictures have been taken in most instances. Eleven were fingerprinted in one day, a record so far for the department and six were fingerprinted on Thursday. rency. The supreme court of New York has held that obligations payable in gold can be paid in legal tender.

Week to Week Gold Basis.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—America's gold policy will be working on a week to week basis with developments governing the course to be pursued by the treasury from now on.

Officials today anticipated adoption of the resolution providing elimination of the gold clause in public and private obligations and contracts early next week.

This was the latest development in policy. It was expected to have a stabilizing effect, particularly in cleaning up the confusion that has existed in relation to industrial bonds payable in gold. Under the new legislation these bonds would be paid in any "lawful currency" while gold bonds would be prohibited in the future.

Position Unchanged.

So far as the government is concerned its position is not changed by the resolution, since the country already is off the gold standard and gold payments have been suspended except under treasury license.

Under present law it would be necessary to write a gold clause in the new obligations to be issued June 15. The treasury desires, as a matter of permanent policy, to eliminate the requirement for gold payment. The bonds of few other countries are payable in gold.

UNION TOWNSHIP MAN IS BELIEVED VICTIM OF BULL

Brien, expressed the same opinion and Janus was questioned.

He told the officers that Novak owned a bull and that the bull had attacked a man named John Pusnick, East Long avenue and Moravia street, New Castle, prior to his attack on Novak, Thursday. The attack occurred when they were together at the Novak farm.

The officers hurried to the Novak farm. When the widow saw the officers approaching she became hysterical, but was quieted and she told them in brief the following story:

Tells of Attacks.

Novak and Pusnick had been at the former's farm about five p. m. Thursday. The bull attacked Pusnick. He "wrestled" with the bull and a dog came to his rescue. The bull dashed away, with Novak trying to turn it back to the barn.

John Waterbaker, who lives at the Novak farm, carried Pusnick into the house and a New Castle physician was called. Pusnick was given treatment at the farm and then removed.

In the meantime the bull dashed for probably a mile, with Novak trying to turn it back. Its tracks showed where it had travelled and led to the spot where Novak's body was found, near Miller avenue or North Lafayette street.

A girl at 601 North Lafayette street told State Policeman Hughman of seeing the bull dashing through a garden immediately next to where Novak's body was found. She attempted to chase the bull away. It did not attack her, she said.

The officers viewed the bull, which had returned to the Novak barn and stood inside an enclosure. It stamped its feet and belled when the officers approached. Its eyes protruded. Its horns, though once cut, were six inches long.

The body of Novak was removed to the Mahoning undertaking establishment upon orders of Coroner Orville Potter.

When Novak did not return to his home Thursday night, his wife asked friends that a search be made for him. One of them, it is said, lighted a lantern and searched in different sections of the farm. However, the search was futile until today.

YE OLDE-TYME MUSIC FEATURES PROGRAM

Decidedly clever as well as most unique and original was "Ye Olde Tyme programme" given Friday evening in the Second United Presbyterian church under the sponsorship of the choir, directed by Mrs. W. J. Caldwell.

By "candle lighting time" the auditorium of the church could not accommodate another person and as the curtains parted a typical living room of long ago was presented to view with oil lamps and candles furnishing the light and in the corner was the old family organ, while all furniture and "hides" were taken from some one's attic or from among the heirlooms.

When the guests arrived at the church they were ushered to their seats by a group of demure ladies in poke bonnets and "bustled" gowns. They were Mildred Zahner, Elsie Warner, Anna Mary Alexander, Lantia Campbell, Aramatha Boyard, Sarah McKee, Grace Bell, Martha Hanna, Peg Hanna, Hazel Hanna, Elsie Johnson and Edith Strimmar.

Ye Old Time Fiddlers saved away as the audience was assembling, they were E. C. Reiber and Bob McCree, with Sam McCree at the piano. Then upon the platform came the 37 singers, whose garments graced the bodies of their ancestors many years ago, and it was the costumes, the stage setting and the songs of all ye singers that made the evening such a delightful success.

"Reuben and Rachel" made a decided hit as they sang numerous verses of the familiar song; the parts were taken by Ruth Weir and Ted Strimmar. Margaret Brenner sang "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" and the childhood sweetheart was portrayed by Adeline Alford and the wife by Mirandah Dadds.

Old Black Joe was cleverly portrayed and sung by Ted Strimmar and Mrs. Aileen Stone, and all ye singers sang "My Grandfather's Clock," "Whip-poor-will" and "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming."

"Ye Dancie Songs" with haunting rhythmic melodies were sung by the Book-Leyde quartet and Elsie McGee sang "The Jonesville Choir." Extremely picturesque was Ye Olde Familie Album with the solo sung by Mrs. W. J. Caldwell as the various characters were thrown in shadow upon a screen. "Sweet and Low" was pictured by Mrs. Julia Caruthers, "Annie Laurie" by Jean Wimer and Robert Denniston. "Sweet Threads Among the Gold" by Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Strimmar and "Jingle Bells" by Ethel Denniston and Uriah McGeehan.

The program closed with a medley of Ye Olde Songs by all ye singers and ye old tyme fiddlers gave the final music.

Within the borders of the United States are found three great birds of prey—the bald eagle, the golden eagle and the California condor.

Various surprise gifts were distributed during the afternoon and the concluding feature was a program in charge of Mrs. Russell Rhodes that was well received.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER EVENT FOR W. B. A.

A mothers' banquet which was most delightful was that held Friday evening by Review 88 of the W. B. A. in the I. O. O. F. Hall, East Washington street.

Mrs. Ada R. Stone, managing deputy of Butler, and Mrs. G. Eakin of Knox were special guests. A delicious menu was served with Mrs. Ethel Thomas and Mrs. Myrtle Rohrer on the committee and a long table centered with a maypole with dolls dressed in the colors of the review holding the ribbons, each place was marked with a small bouquet of flowers. Mrs. Margaret Hammond, Mrs. Louise Vickery, Mrs. Annan Gilch, Mrs. Margaret Wharton and Mrs. Bertha Patterson prepared the dinner.

Mrs. Helen Ray had charge of the program, which included a musical prayer; greetings from Mrs. Ada R. Stone and Mrs. Aiken. Mrs. Myrtle Rohrer gave the welcome speech; the toast to daughters was given by Mrs. Ethel Thomas and to mothers by Mrs. Rachel Reynolds; Emory Back, accompanied by Mrs. Johns had a violin number; a song to mothers was sung; Betty Jane Cope had two readings and Mrs. Emma Claple, the president, gave a short address.

Jean Hicks pleased with banjo numbers; a song was sung to the daughters and Anna Patterson, past president, made a few remarks. Mrs. Frances Cope had a reading and Mrs. Mildred Boyd, accompanied by Mrs. Layman, sang "Little Mother o' Mine."

Flowers were presented to Mrs. Deborah Russell, oldest mother in the review; Mrs. Virginia Knox Burkholder, youngest mother present and Mrs. Louise Vickery, oldest worker in the W. B. A. and the program closed with an adieu song.

A business session was held and plans were made for going to Knox June 1 where the New Castle juniors will present a drill and to Monaca on June 5.

BIBLE CLASS HEARS VISITING SOLOIST

Approximately 60 members of the Men's Bible class of the First Congregational church held their monthly meeting Friday night, but this meeting will probably stand out a little more than the ordinary gatherings. In addition to the class activities, Robert Johns of Pittsburgh, soloist of the First Presbyterian church, was a visitor and sang a group of songs for the class.

Mr. Johns is not an ordinary singer. He is a baritone, with an unusual range, tremendous power and a melodic quality to his voice that is winning him a place in the front rank of singers in this section. He was accompanied by his wife.

Councilman D. O. Davies acted as chairman of the evening and called upon several guests to speak briefly. They did, among them Fred Jones of Pittsburgh, who has been the secretary to Senator James J. Davis for many years; Daniel Jones, Attorney W. Walter Braham, Major Guy J. Wadlinger and Bart Richards.

Concluding the program of the evening the class sang "Comrades in Arms" directed by Mr. Davies, and then adjourned to the basement of the church where a lunch was served.

KICKING A PEACH PIT

ALONG THE STREET

A man saw a peach pit on the sidewalk and gave it a kick.

You know how kids do that in idle moments. They see a white rock or a crumpled can or an old apple they give it a good kick. When they catch up with it they give it another kick. Then another and another and another. They can't stop. The thing fascinates them and they keep it up for half an hour and maybe more. They kick it for blocks, perhaps for miles.

Well, that's what this man did. He was old enough to know better, of course. That is, he was old enough to know better. He had been old enough for 20 years at least. But just the same he saw that peach pit and he kicked it along the sidewalk. The sidewalk was down town right in the shopping district, right where he was quite likely to see and to be seen by people he knew. And that made it worse. But he didn't think—he merely kicked the peach pit.

After a few kicks, it became automatic, and he thought of other things. He thought of evolution, for example, as he looked at a fine looking man, and he compared him with the cavemen of 20,000 years ago. And he saw another man who looked exactly as he supposed the cavemen used to look, and he wondered who he was. He was a woman with bright red finger nails and he wondered if she painted them for men or for other women for fashion's sake. He couldn't make up his mind—as he kicked the peach pit along. Sometimes he thought women dressed for men and sometimes he was certain they did for women. Who can decide that problem, anyway? Not the women, certainly, not the man. He gave the peach pit another kick. He was a beggar, and he thought a little about the depression and casual giving and organized charity, and he saw a baby in a carriage and he wondered why it would be like for that child, grown up 30 years from now. He wondered, too, if he'd be alive then. There was hardly any limit to all the things that man thought about as he kicked that peach pit up the block and across the street and several blocks more.

And then he stopped. He stopped because a woman suddenly said to him, "Don't you think you've kicked that peach pit far enough?"

He turned suddenly and saw that woman was his WIFE. She was one-third amused and one-third ashamed and one-third annoyed, and he was rather upset. It's one of those things you can't explain every easily. It's so silly and so childish and so absurd. So he didn't try to explain.

Since then, however, he shies away from every peach pit he sees and kicks nothing along the street. But that's easy enough to understand.

The buying wave now sweeping the country is very real, although it will probably not become an actual stampede, because of unemployment and frozen assets. The millions of persons still employed, those living upon the returns from investments, or upon their savings, are now laying in needed goods against the rise of prices on every hand.

Farmers' purchases, both for immediate and future needs, are reported as better. The assurance of better prices for their products encourages people on farms to look ahead. Many had become so discouraged that they were not buying even the necessities for which the money could be found. It takes a certain degree of confidence and hope to put anyone in a buying mood.

To many classes of incomes, the rising price levels is in itself unpleasant, like an operation that must be undergone in the hope of better business health in the future.

Salaried people, and a considerable extent wage-earners, will be hurt, for a while. This should be eased by wage adjustments.

Cheaper dollars carry with them the economic principle that they will be easier to get hold of.

Viewed broadly, rising prices are a boon to active, hustling efficient people who stand to do more business and to get out from under their debts more readily. Rising prices are a doubtful blessing to retired folk, or to those laid aside for any cause from active participation in business, industry, professions, or other work.

The death in Council Bluffs, at the age of 80, of Thomas R. Owen, reminds us how few are left of the men and women who conquered the west. He had experienced, perhaps, more than his share of the hazards and hardships of that conquest, and so his life epitomized, in a way, the lives of the many who cut loose from the security of the old civilization of the Atlantic seaboard, to dare the perils of colonizing the country west of the Mississippi.

When one reads that Thomas Owen ferried the Mormon emigrants across the Missouri at Florence, the mind envisions the trek of those religious devotees over the plains, and their remarkable success in their new land of Channan near the Great Salt Lake. From here Mr. Owen went to Colorado, and there survived a massacre by the Indians of a company of whites at Julesburg. He freighted back and forth across the plains in the days before the railroads, and knew the long days and nights of the toilsome journey. He must have enjoyed the declining years of his life, when he could see the thriving cities on the plains where he knew only coyote, buffalo and redskin; and when fertile farms of peaceful civilization fulfilled the hope of the venturesome homesteaders who first set plow to virgin grassland.

Most of those early pioneers are gone; even their children are no longer numerous, and the third generation, with its own trials and troubles, is often forgetful of the past. Yet all must find courage and inspiration and hope today in the knowledge that in an earlier day men risked their all for a hope much less bright, and found the courage to dare greatly in an adventure whose outcome no man would foresee.—The Omaha World-Herald.

The first hundred ideas are the hardest!

After the first hundred ideas, which means the first hundred indications that the mind is doing a little thinking on its own account, not merely listening in the process of thinking becomes easier.

There are men that live and die without ever having what really may be called an idea of their own, and there have been men, with one single idea, have done more for the world and for other men than the millions of ordinary men with ordinary ideas could do in a whole lifetime.

Among the wisest of all the created animals, man had just one thing in his favor. He could think, and by forming ideas he has lifted himself from the misery and degradation of the cave man to everything that man possesses and everything he is today.

If a man could take the trouble, and thinks success and achievement worth while he can lash his brains into real productivity. Brains, like horses, must be driven, and the reason so many brains never accomplish anything is because their owners are too tired to drive them.

With too many people the trouble is not too little thinking but not thinking at all. The fact that the idea of a few can do so much for all mankind does not excuse the many that drift through life allowing their brains to remain idle and non-productive, like money hidden under the floor, drawing no interest.

THE R. F. D. SERVICE

The rural free delivery has become an indispensable service; how the cost compares with expense might leave an expert accountant in the dark. Direct receipts in postage on collections won't pay for it obviously; but it isn't always fair in a system of delivery to allocate receipts entirely to their source.

If it wasn't for the R. F. D., a considerable quantity of those newspapers, magazines, catalogues and articles of commerce wouldn't be sent. After the rent, salaries and expenses of the post offices it displaced, are deducted from the cost of the system, it is probable that the R. F. D. comes as near to paying for itself as a number of conveniences for city people do.

Atlas, carrying the world on his shoulders, seems not so much a myth when it is realized that a radio soprano, single-handed, can bring the moon over the mountain.

Among the wisest of all the created animals, man had just one thing in his favor. He could think, and by forming ideas he has lifted himself from the misery and degradation of the cave man to everything that man possesses and everything he is today.

If a man could take the trouble, and thinks success and achievement worth while he can lash his brains into real productivity. Brains, like horses, must be driven, and the reason so many brains never accomplish anything is because their owners are too tired to drive them.

With too many people the trouble is not too little thinking but not thinking at all. The fact that the idea of a few can do so much for all mankind does not excuse the many that drift through life allowing their brains to remain idle and non-productive, like money hidden under the floor, drawing no interest.

THE R. F. D. SERVICE

The rural free delivery has become an indispensable service; how the cost compares with expense might leave an expert accountant in the dark. Direct receipts in postage on collections won't pay for it obviously; but it isn't always fair in a system of delivery to allocate receipts entirely to their source.

If it wasn't for the R. F. D., a considerable quantity of those newspapers, magazines, catalogues and articles of commerce wouldn't be sent. After the rent, salaries and expenses of the post offices it displaced, are deducted from the cost of the system, it is probable that the R. F. D. comes as near to paying for itself as a number of conveniences for city people do.

Atlas, carrying the world on his shoulders, seems not so much a myth when it is realized that a radio soprano, single-handed, can bring the moon over the mountain.

The buying wave now sweeping the country is very real, although it will probably not become an actual stampede, because of unemployment and frozen assets. The millions of persons still employed, those living upon the returns from investments, or upon their savings, are now laying in needed goods against the rise of prices on every hand.

Farmers' purchases, both for immediate and future needs, are reported as better. The assurance of better prices for their products encourages people on farms to look ahead. Many had become so discouraged that they were not buying even the necessities for which the money could be found. It takes a certain degree of confidence and hope to put anyone in a buying mood.

To many classes of incomes, the rising price levels is in itself unpleasant, like an operation that must be undergone in the hope of better business health in the future.

Salaried people, and a considerable extent wage-earners, will be hurt, for a while. This should be eased by wage adjustments.

Cheaper dollars carry with them the economic principle that they will be easier to get hold of.

Viewed broadly, rising prices are a boon to active, hustling efficient people who stand to do more business and to get out from under their debts more readily. Rising prices are a doubtful blessing to retired folk, or to those laid aside for any cause from active participation in business, industry, professions, or other work.

The death in Council Bluffs, at the age of 80, of Thomas R. Owen, reminds us how few are left of the men and women who conquered the west. He had experienced, perhaps, more than his share of the hazards and hardships of that conquest, and so his life epitomized, in a way, the lives of the many who cut loose from the security of the old civilization of the Atlantic seaboard, to dare the perils of colonizing the country west of the Mississippi.

When one reads that Thomas Owen ferried the Mormon emigrants across the Missouri at Florence, the mind envisions the trek of those religious devotees over the plains, and their remarkable success in their new land of Channan near the Great Salt Lake. From here Mr. Owen went to Colorado, and there survived a massacre by the Indians of a company of whites at Julesburg. He freighted back and forth across the plains in the days before the railroads, and knew the long days and nights of the toilsome journey. He must have enjoyed the declining years of his life, when he could see the thriving cities on the plains where he knew only coyote, buffalo and redskin; and when fertile farms of peaceful civilization fulfilled the hope of the venturesome homesteaders who first set plow to virgin grassland.

Most of those early pioneers are gone; even their children are no longer numerous, and the third generation, with its own trials and troubles, is often forgetful of the past. Yet all must find courage and inspiration and hope today in the knowledge that in an earlier day men risked their all for a hope much less bright, and found the courage to dare greatly in an adventure whose outcome no man would foresee.—The Omaha World-Herald.

The first hundred ideas are the hardest!

After the first hundred ideas, which means the first hundred indications that the mind is doing a little thinking on its own account, not merely listening in the process of thinking becomes easier.

There are men that live and die without ever having what really may be called an idea of their own, and there have been men, with one single idea, have done more for the world and for other men than the millions of ordinary men with ordinary ideas could do in a whole lifetime.

Among the wisest of all the created animals, man had just one thing in his favor. He could think, and by forming ideas he has lifted himself from the misery and degradation of the cave man to everything that man possesses and everything he is today.

R. F. C. REPORT SHOWS TREND

TURNING from the obvious industrial improvement which has been so marked in the present month, one finds unexpected financial improvement, too.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is not throwing money down into a bottomless hole, as many have feared.
Banks, insurance companies and other borrowers have been paying back large sums. According to a statement from Chairman Jesse H. Jones on May 21, of something more than a billion and a half dollars lent, they had repaid half a billion—nearly one-third. Farmers and livestock men, too, have been repaying loans from the Agricultural Credit Corporation.

The R. F. C. will still feed large sums of public money into private and semi-private business, as required, for some time yet.
It may never go out of business. But there is increasing evidence that, broadly speaking, what has been intended as a revolving fund will really revolve, as its work becomes stabilized, instead of being dissipated in futile government philanthropies.

BUYING BEFORE THE RISE

The buying wave now sweeping the country is very real, although it will probably not become an actual stampede, because of unemployment and frozen assets. The millions of persons still employed, those living upon the returns from investments, or upon their savings, are now laying in needed goods against the rise of prices on every hand.

Farmers' purchases, both for immediate and future needs, are reported as better. The assurance of better prices for their products encourages people on farms to look ahead. Many had become so discouraged that they were not buying even the necessities for which the money could be found. It takes a certain degree of confidence and hope to put anyone in a buying mood.

To many classes of incomes, the rising price levels is in itself unpleasant, like an operation that must be undergone in the hope of better business health in the future.

Salaried people, and a considerable extent wage-earners, will be hurt, for a while. This should be eased by wage adjustments.

Cheaper dollars carry with them the economic principle that they will be easier to get hold of.

Viewed broadly, rising prices are a boon to active, hustling efficient people who stand to do more business and to get out from under their debts more readily. Rising prices are a doubtful blessing to retired folk, or to those laid aside for any cause from active participation in business, industry, professions, or other work.

"THE GOOD OLD DAYS"

The death in Council Bluffs, at the age of 90, of Thomas R. Owen, reminds us how few are left of the men and women who conquered the west. He had experienced, perhaps, more than his share of the hazards and hardships of that conquest, and so his life epitomized, in a way, the lives of the many who out of the security of the old civilization of the Atlantic seaboard, to dare the perils of colonizing the country west of the Mississippi.

When one reads that Thomas Owen ferried the Mormon emigrants across the Missouri at Florence, the mind envisions the trek of those religious devotees over the plains, and their remarkable success in their new land of Canaan near the Great Salt Lake. From here Mr. Owen went to Colorado, and there survived a massacre by the Indians of a company of whites at Julesburg. He freighted back and forth across the plains in the days before the railroads, and knew the long days and nights of the toilsome journey. He must have enjoyed the declining years of his life, when he could see the thriving cities on the plains where he knew civilization fulfilled the hope of the venturesome homesteaders who first troubles, is often forgetful of the past. Yet all must find courage and inspiration and hope today in the knowledge that in an earlier day men risked their all for a hope much less bright, and found the courage to dare greatly in an adventure whose outcome no man would foresee.—

The Omaha World-Herald.

IDEAS

The first hundred ideas are the hardest!
After the first hundred ideas, which means the first hundred indications that the mind is doing a little thinking on its own account, not merely listening in, the process of thinking becomes easier.

There are men that live and die without ever having what really may be called an idea of their own, and there have been men, with one single idea, have done more for the world and for other men than the millions of ordinary men with ordinary ideas could do in a whole lifetime.
Among the weakest of all the created animals, man had just one thing in his favor. He could think, and by forming ideas he has lifted himself from the misery and degradation of the cave man to everything that man possesses and everything he is today.

If a man cares to take the trouble, and thinks success and achievement worth while he can lash his brains into real productivity. Brains, like horses, must be driven, and the reason so many brains never accomplish anything is because their owners are too tired to drive them.

With too many people the trouble is not too little thinking but no thinking at all. The fact that the idea of a few can do so much for all mankind does not excuse the many that drift through life allowing their brains to remain idle and non-productive, like money hidden under the floor, drawing no interest.

KICKING A PEACH PIT
ALONG THE STREET

A man saw a peach pit on the sidewalk and gave it a kick.....
You know how kids do that in idle moments. They see a white rock or a crumpled can or an old apple they give it a good kick. When they catch up with it they give it another kick. Then another and another and another.....They can't stop. The thing fascinates them and they keep it up for half an hour and maybe more. They kick it for blocks, perhaps for miles.
Well, that's what this man did.
He was old enough to know better, of course. That is, he was old enough to know better.....He had been old enough for 20 years at least.
But just the same he saw the peach pit and he kicked it along the sidewalk.....The sidewalk was downtown right in the shopping district, right where he was quite likely to see and to be seen by people he knew.
And that made it worse.....But he "didn't think"—he merely kicked the peach pit.

After a few kicks, it became automatic, and he thought of other things.....He thought of evolution, for example, as he looked at a fine looking man, and he compared him with the caveman of 20,000 years ago. And he saw another man who looked exactly as he supposed the caveman used to look, and he almost changed his mind about evolution.....He saw the young woman with bright red finger nails and he wondered if she painted them for men or for other women for fashion's sake. He couldn't make up his mind—as he kicked the peach pit along. Sometimes he thought of women dressed for men and sometimes he was certain they did for women.
.....Who can decide that problem, anyway? Not the women, certainly, not the man.....He gave the peach pit another kick.....He was a beggan, and he thought a little about the depression and casual giving and organized charity, and he saw a baby in a carriage and he wondered why life would be like for that child, grown up, 30 years from now. He wondered, too, if he'd be alive then.....There was hardly any limit to all the things that man thought about.....As he kicked that peach pit up the block and down the street and several blocks more.

And then he stopped.....He stopped because a woman suddenly said to him, "Don't you think you've kicked that peach pit far enough?"
.....He turned suddenly and saw that woman was his WIFE. She was one-third amused and one-third ashamed and one-third annoyed, and he was rather upset too. It's one of those things you can't explain very easily. It's so silly and so childish and so absurd.....So he didn't try to explain.
Since then, however, he shies away from every peach pit he sees and kicks nothing along the street.
But that's easy enough to understand.

ARE YOU A KNOW-IT-ALL?

Are you irritably positive in your opinions?
Do you accuse those who differ with you of being deficient in good judgment?
Do you express your ideas in a form that admits of no argument?
"Just when did you acquire a corner on good sense?" is a question that many of your friends are asking.
The mere fact that you seem to think you are unmistakably right, and so will not listen to the statements of others, is pretty strong proof that you are generally inaccurate in your opinions.
You will not allow yourself to learn facts—to be convinced of the errorneousness of your ideas.
You are ready to force your opinions, vehemently, on those who will listen.
As a result you are considered a great bore.
Very little dependence is put on your statements because you form opinions so quickly, without full information based on truth.
Because people don't try to argue with you, you think they concede you are right.
This is not the reason, however; it's considered a waste of time to oppose you—a hopelessly opinionated bore and so irritably disagreeable about it.

TODAY'S STORYETTE

The young bride visiting her mother for the first time since her marriage, had been asking her parent all sorts of questions about running the household.
"Oh yes, mother," she said, "one other thing I wanted to know is whether you get gray at the grocer's or butcher's."

During the rain storm the other day we saw an old-fashioned lady the gals were partly carrying their clothes in their hands about all the time?

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN
We, of the printing trade and its allies, think of Benjamin Franklin as a printer; to the school-boys, he is a hero because of his adventure in kite flying; to those of us inclined to be thrifty, his greatness rests upon Poor Richard's axioms,
by all Americans, he is venerated for his patriotic service to his country. But these are only a few of his outstanding accomplishments, any one of which would bring him everlasting fame. So many were his accomplishments that it is no wonder some of them, although notable, are entirely unknown to us.

How many of us, outside of the medical profession, and even within

Benjamin Franklin we are indebted for our public hospital system, for it was through his influence and interest that the first public hospital in America was established in 1754.
And it was likewise, through his efforts that the practice of medicine was separated from that of pharmacy. No other man, in the history of our country, was more versatile.
Today, after a period of 143 years

Uncertainty In Akron Report
Leaves Permanent Mystery

Public Doubts Wisdom Of Holding That Commander Was Involved In Disaster And Ambiguity In Findings
Receives Some Attention

While Congress has undertaken to solve the mystery of the disaster to the dirigible Akron of the United States Navy, public estimates of the official report indicate that there is a tendency to believe that the question of possible error will never be answered. Commander Frank C. Mc-Cord receives the benefit of the doubt.

"The secret of the Akron," in the opinion of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "if at any time there was tangible evidence that human shortcoming was responsible for the crashing of the giant fabric into the sea, died with her. It seems doubtful that Congressional inquiry can yield any new facts." The Evening News concludes as to the future of this craft of the air: "The Akron is gone, and time has tempered the distress which followed the loss of the ship and her officers and crew.
Undaunted, her sister ship, the Macom, has taken her maiden and several subsequent flights. Airplanes are following the air lanes of this and other nations. Private ownership of planes increases, as progress makes these heavier-than-air craft simpler, more worthy and more dependable. The Prince of Wales takes his first trip in his new ten-passenger plane, as luxurious as a yacht. Arriving from his native Spain, the inventor of the dirigible is honored by one of America's oldest scientific societies for his contributions to safety in flight. Thus the puny wings sprouted by humans so short a time ago become sturdier;
disaster falls utterly to clip them."

"A down current of wind of great force struck the dirigible," says the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, "forcing it to the water before the downward course could be checked." So ended the life of the Akron. The Commander McCord contributed to the tragedy by "not setting such courses as would have kept him in the safe semi-circle" and thus avoiding the storm conditions which destroyed his craft. From this latter conclusion of the court Admiral Pratt, and the secretary of the navy dissent. So ends the tale. There are twistings and turnings and boings and churnings of the air above us which are not dreamed of in the philosophy of the people on the ground.

"Only three eyewitnesses to the accident survive," observes the NEW YORK SUN. "Their stories, told before the Naval Court of Inquiry, showed how little can be seen by any one person of an accident of that sort, which in a few seconds destroys an airship of enormous size.
Though there were more than a score of survivors of the destruction of the Shenandoah, the court of inquiry which sat in that case was not able to piece together a convincing mosaic from the testimony given."

"No general agreement on important points" is seen by the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL, declaring that the investigation achieved very little, that "information is meager and opinions on questions involved very greatly." The PROVIDENCE JOURNAL believes that "to the general public the large question is whether there is anything intrinsi-cally defective in the Akron type of dirigible airship." That paper remarks that "in the meantime, the Graf Zeppelin goes on her extraor-

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NATIONAL POLICE

Every city always needs two things—a good Police Department and a good Fire Department. The Police Strike in the City of Boston, which lasted only as long as it was necessary for the late Calvin Coolidge, then Governor of Massachusetts, to put the State Militia in charge, should show to every thinking American the danger of being without adequate police protection.

As it is for the city, so it is for the Nation. The Army and Navy constitute the Police and Fire Departments of the National government. A good Army and a good Navy are very necessary to protect the lives and property of the citizens of the United States.

The thugs and rascals of Boston, who took that opportunity of smashing windows, looting stores and pillaging, have a replica in the "thugs" Nations of the World. There is not a single Nation on the face of the earth that does not sincerely despise and envy these United States. All this Nations will take every opportunity of robbing and pillaging. Just now they are refusing to pay their just debts to us.

They are asking us to throw down our tariff barriers and allow their cheap goods to replace those here-before made by American workmen.
As they would make us pay the War debt, so would they destroy workmen's homes in these United States.

This Nation had a very great lesson of what unpreparedness meant when it sent its only superficially trained soldiers to Europe in 1917 and 1918.

Think of the situation in Belleau Wood when thirty-six men from the supposedly well-trained fortieth Division were sent to replace the casualties of a Company belonging to the First Division. Of those thirty-six men, one on the spot who knew says: "Only three men knew how to load their guns."

Is it not rather dangerous to practice economy in our Army and Navy, which is so insignificant now compared to the armed forces of Europe and Asia?

good there is in me" said the man.

Within two days the pain was relieved and Mrs. Gleason's sight began slowly to return. She could distinguish shadows and, recently, some colors. Gradually, vision returned and today she saw her grandchildren for the first time.

On the advice of doctors, care is being taken to prevent Mrs. Gleason from using her eyes too much and colored glasses were ordered as protection against too much light.

Pinchot Vetoes Bill Exempting Bank 4-Mill Tax

Expresses Regret That Action
Is Necessary, But Says
Funds Are Needed

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, May 27.—Gov. Gifford Pinchot, expressing regret, on Friday vetoed Senator James J. Coyne's bill designed to exempt interest-bearing bank accounts from the four-mill personal property tax. His action, under an opinion by the attorney general, makes Pennsylvania banks liable to a four-mill tax on interest-bearing deposits, an impost estimated to yield $8,000,000 for unemployment relief in the next two years. This was part of an agreement between the governor and several assembly leaders to aid the jobs.

The banks are liable to the tax, according to the attorney general, because of enactment of the Einstein law earlier in the session. The latter measure exempted depositors from payment of the four-mill tax but neglected to repeal a part of the personal property tax law. Accordingly, the department of justice said the banks would have to pay the tax. This opinion was followed by passage of the Coyne bill to exempt the banks themselves.

"I am opposed to the tax on interest-bearing bank accounts," said the governor, "and I would cheerfully approve this bill but for the fact that the greatest emergency before us at the present time is the unemployment situation. Nothing can be subordinated to unemployment relief."

Five Robert's bills providing for the receipt of separate bids and the letting of separate contracts for structural steel work in the erection of public buildings were doomed by the veto pen. Ten other bills were killed and 20 more were signed today.

License Court Is Adjourned Until Monday

Inquiries Made Regarding Effect Of Remonstrance From Scott Township

PETITIONS HEARD SATURDAY MORNING

County Treasurer Wm. O. Pitts adjourned license court hearings at noon today, until next Monday morning. There are about thirty more applications to be heard largely those of persons who are not represented by attorneys.

A Scott township citizen was in this morning to inquire what effect a remonstrance would have, provided the people of Scott township got one up against the granting of licenses in Scott township. On the advice of his attorney, J. Glenn Berry, Treasurer Pitts told the representative that there is no provision in the law which would warrant the refusal of a license on account of a remonstrance, provided the applicant is of good moral character and has complied with the provisions of the act.

There has been a report that a remonstrance from another district is to be filed, but so far it has not been presented.

New Type Vault Being Made Here; Used In Historic Ceremony Sunday

KRYPT-ALOY VAULT BEING MADE AT NATIONAL RADIATOR PLANT

Tablet In Ceremony

INSRIPTION ON TABLET AT FISHER SUMMIT MEMORIAL SERVICE SUNDAY

After months of research and development, the National Radiator Corporation has ready for the market a cast iron vault, known as the Krypt-Aloy vault, designed and developed by A. F. H. Scott, consulting engineer of the corporation. The vaults are being manufactured by the New Castle plant.

Mr. Scott has designed the vault along pleasing lines and with a new idea which provides an air-tight and water-tight vault through its moulded seamless construction. This makes it possible to permanently enclose and chemically condition the contents to assure an environment conducive to long preservation.

Used In Historic Ceremony

An interesting feature concerning these vaults is the use of the first Krypt-Aloy Vault produced to re-bury the remains of seven Pennsylvania Rangers who were massacred by the Indians in 1780 near Saxton, Pennsylvania. The bones of the massacre victims were recently discovered near the site of the massacre and will be reburied with military and religious ceremony at a service to be held by the Saxton Post 169 American Legion, Sunday afternoon, May 28 at 2:00 o'clock standard time. The ceremony will take place at the Fisher Summit Memorial Monument in Liberty Township, which was erected in 1926 in honor of the Rangers.

It is also of interest that Mr. Scott, designer of the vault to be used in the ceremony, has been designated by the War Department in Washington to represent the Commanding General, Third Corps Area, U. S. Army at the ceremony. Mr. Scott is a lieutenant colonel in the Coast Artillery Reserve and as the War Department's official representative will make one of the principal addresses of the day.

The principal address will be given by Lieutenant Governor Edward C. Shannon, Major General, Commanding Pennsylvania National Guard. Other speakers will be: C. Hale Sipe, of Butler, Pa., prominent Pennsylvania historian and lawyer; Congressman Benjamin Pocht and Joseph Biddle; the Rev. Father Stephen A. Ward, pastor of Our Mother of Sorrows Catholic church, Westmont, Johnstown, Pa., and the Rev. Thompson, of Tamaqua.

Would Ask Three State Judges To Give Up Offices

Democrat Demands Pinchot Request Kephart, Schaffer And Baldrige To Resign

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, May 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan's revelations before a U. S. Senate inquiry today precipitated a demand from Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, that three jurists on Pennsylvania's supreme and superior courts resign.

Unless Justices William I. Schaffer and John W. Kephart of the supreme court and Thomas J. Baldrige of the superior court resign "within a reasonable time," Gov. Gifford Pinchot should demand their resignations, Van Dyke stated. The gravity of the situation is sufficient to justify a special session of the legislature if an impeachment trial is found necessary, he added.

Asks Resignations
Justices Schaffer and Kephart, whose names appeared with Justice Baldrige's on Morgan's "preferred list," admitted they purchased Allegheny Corporation stock. Justice Schaffer sold his "at a considerable loss," but Kephart retains his, for which he is willing to accept "20 a share."

"If public confidence in the state's tribunals is to be preserved, these men must resign," Van Dyke asserted. "The people of Pennsylvania want to know whether the introduction of their court justices into the inner circle of the House of Morgan came through the good offices of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Mellon-controlled Pennsylvania railroad or through Mr. Mellon, himself."

Improperly Denied.
PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Three judges of Pennsylvania's higher courts today denied any impropriety of office was involved in their purchase of stock in the Allegheny corporation from J. P. Morgan and company.

The jurists, Judges John W. Kephart and William I. Schaffer of the state supreme court and Judge Thomas J. Baldrige of the superior court bench explained the stock was purchased for investment.

All denied having received any special privileges from the house of Morgan.

"I feel that I have the same right to buy stocks that any one else has," said Judge Kephart.

"The transaction was perfectly proper," commented Judge Schaffer. Judge Baldrige said Drexel and company had at his request recommended purchase of the Allegheny stock and said he had made other similar purchases of various securities.

HEAT VICTIMS ABLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL
Felix Yuenaky, of Moravia street, and Asad Mike, of Pennsylvania avenue, who were brought to the Allegheny Memorial hospital, suffering from heat exhaustion, were released on Wednesday while at work at the Shenango Works of the A. S. and T. P. Co., have recovered sufficiently to return to their homes.

UNDER FIRE

WILLIAM H. WOODIN
NORMAN H. DAVIS

Demands for the resignations of William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, and Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large to Europe, have been reverberating on Capitol hill following disclosure of the fact that both have been on the "preferred list" invited to buy bargain stocks by the House of Morgan. Senators and congressmen demanding Woodin's resignation and Davis' recall from Europe point out that such public officials should not remain in office while associated under any obligations to J. P. Morgan & Co.

Lawrence County Soldier Poet Is Dead At Los Angeles

Major Byers Wrote Sherman's March To Sea And Other Poems

LOS ANGELES, May 27.—The colorful career of Major Samuel M. Byers, 64, poet, statesman, Civil War veteran and author of the stirring war song, "Sherman's March to the Sea," has come to an end. He died of pneumonia late Thursday at the home of relatives.

Major Byers, a native of Pulaski, near New Castle, Pa., was the last surviving member of General Sherman's staff.

After his capture and imprisonment in Columbia, S. C., Byers wrote the words to the marching song that became the battle cry of the Union forces. A copy of this song was smuggled through the Confederate lines and set to music by J. O. Rockwell.

Two years after the Civil war Byers was sent as consul to Switzerland, serving until 1884, when he was made consul-general to Italy. He later served in that capacity in Switzerland and then returned to his home in Iowa. There he penned the "Song of Iowa," later officially adopted by that state.

Major Byers came to California 18 years ago. His last book of poems, "In Arcadia," was published when he was 61 years old.

Others of the soldier-statesman's writings include "With Fire and Sword," "History of the Civil War," "Twenty Years in Europe" and "Twenty Expresses."

Two brothers, H. V. Byers, New York, La., and Charles H. Byers, Berkeley, Cal., and three sisters, two of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Richard Hull, Oskaloosa, Ia., survive.

Memorial Program At Rose Avenue School On Friday

Students of the Rose Avenue School held their Memorial Day observance Friday afternoon, presented a program of songs and recitations, and heard two speakers representing the American Legion.

The program of the students was headed by Miss Joanna Hood who acted in the capacity of announcer. The opening number was the Salute to the Flag by the school, then "America the Beautiful." The children of 4-A then sang two songs, "The Flag and the Eagle," and "Abraham Lincoln" followed by Miss Francis Kennedy who recited "The Meaning of Memorial Day." She was followed by Katy Bully who gave a pledge to patriotism. A recitation, "Honor the Patriots" followed.

An exercise by boys of the 6-B class, "Famous Men" followed. The boys of 5-A then sang a group of songs, and were followed by boys of 6B in an exercise, "The Meaning of Our Colors." Joanna Hood then recited "Honor the Veterans." A playlet, "The Drummer Boy" provided some amusement and entertainment.

Girls of 6-B presented "Memorial Flowers." Jean Chapman recited "The Service Flag" and the entire 6-B class presented "Reverence to the Law."

Would Ask Three State Judges To Give Up Offices

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, May 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan's revelations before a U. S. Senate inquiry today precipitated a demand from Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, that three jurists on Pennsylvania's supreme and superior courts resign.

Unless Justices William I. Schaffer and John W. Kephart of the supreme court and Thomas J. Baldrige of the superior court resign "within a reasonable time," Gov. Gifford Pinchot should demand their resignations, Van Dyke stated. The gravity of the situation is sufficient to justify a special session of the legislature if an impeachment trial is found necessary, he added.

Justices Schaffer and Kephart, whose names appeared with Justice Baldrige's on Morgan's "preferred list," admitted they purchased Allegheny Corporation stock. Justice Schaffer sold his "at a considerable loss," but Kephart retains his, for which he is willing to accept "a $20 a share."

"If public confidence in the state's tribunals is to be preserved, these men must resign," Van Dyke asserted. "The people of Pennsylvania want to know whether the introduction of their court justices into the inner circle of the House of Morgan came through the good offices of W. W. Atterbury, president of the Mellon-controlled Pennsylvania railroad or through Mr. Mellon, himself."

Improperly Denied.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—Three judges of Pennsylvania's higher courts today denied any impropriety of office was involved in their purchase of stock in the Allegheny corporation from J. P. Morgan and company.

The jurists, Judges John W. Kephart and William I. Schaffer of the state supreme court and Judge Thomas J. Baldrige on the superior court bench explained the stock was purchased for investment.

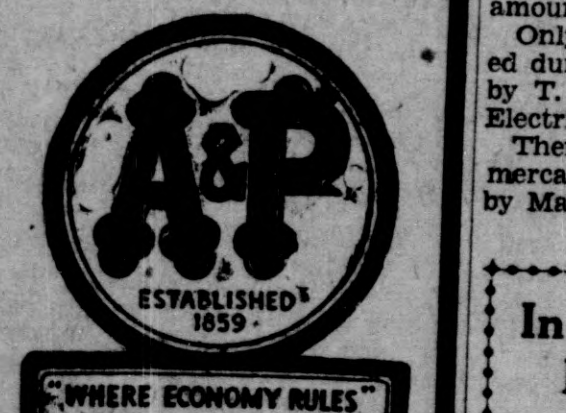

All denied having received any special privileges from the house of Morgan.

"I feel that I have the same right to buy stocks that any one else has," said Judge Kephart.

"The transaction was perfectly proper," commented Judge Schaffer. Judge Baldrige said Drexel and company had at his request recommended purchase of the Allegheny stock and said he had made other similar purchases of various securities.

WILLIAM H. WOODIN
NORMAN H. DAVIS

Demands for the resignations of William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, and Norman H. Davis, ambassador-at-large to Europe, have been reverberating on Capitol hill following disclosure of the fact that both have been on the "favored" lists invited to buy bargain stocks by the House of Morgan. Senators and congressmen demanding Woodin's resignation and Davis' recall from Europe point out that such public officials should not remain in office while assertedly under any obligations to J. P. Morgan & Co.

City To Tax Motor Buses

Council Sits As Board Of Revision On Mercantile Tax Assessments On Friday

Members of city council convened Friday afternoon as a board of appeals and mercantile tax revision. Assessor James Mayberry explained that he had taxed local buses and it was decided to make an assessment on "through" buses. Local buses have been taxed in the past, it was stated.

Local buses are taxed according to their seating capacity. The tax amounts it is said from $20 to $30. Only one objection was registered during the session. It was made by T. C. Moore, New Castle Street Electric railway company.

There were no appeals from the mercantile tax assessments made by Mayberry.

Lawrence County Soldier Poet Is Dead At Los Angeles

Major Byers Wrote Sherman's March To Sea And Other Poems

LOS ANGELES, May 27.—The colorful career of Major Samuel H. M. Byers, 94, poet, statesman, Civil war veteran and author of the stirring war song, "Sherman's March to the Sea," has come to an end. He died of pneumonia late Thursday at the home of relatives.

Major Byers, a native of Pulaski, near New Castle, Pa., was the last surviving member of General Sherman's staff.

After his capture and imprisonment in Columbia, S. C., Byers wrote the words to the marching song that became the battle cry of the Union forces. A copy of this song was smuggled through the Confederate lines and set to music by J. O. Rockwell.

Two years after the Civil war Byers was sent as consul to Switzerland, serving until 1884, when he was made consul-general to Italy. He later served in that capacity to Switzerland and then returned to his home in Iowa. There he penned the "Song of Iowa," later officially adopted by that state.

Major Byers came to California 16 years ago. His last book of poems, "In Arcadia," was published when he was 91 years old.

Others of the soldier-statesman's writings include "With Fire and Sword," "History of the Civil War," "Twenty Years in Europe" and "Pony Express."

Two brothers, H. V. Byers, Newton, Ia., and Charles H. Byers, Berkeley, Cal., and three sisters, two of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Richard Hull, Oskaloosa, Ia., survive.

YOUTH SUFFERS FRACTURED JAW

Lewis Leonard, aged 15 years, of 210 South Jefferson street, was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital Friday suffering from a fractured jaw, which he stated he had received when struck in the face by a caddy with whom he had an argument while on his way to school.

He was found lying unconscious on North Jefferson street, between Falls and Grant, and after receiving treatment at the hospital was able to return to his home.

John Nordstrom, chairman of the merchant's division, reported that 47 local merchants and clubs had signified their intention of having floats in the parade, which will be held Saturday afternoon, June 3.

The reception committee, headed by O. H. Howard, reported that the room formerly occupied by the State Bank had been secured for registration headquarters and as a starting point for the sight-seeing tours which will be a part of the Thursday, June 1, celebration.

Mrs. C. F. Pithian and Mrs. H. W. Harmon, co-chairman of the historical exhibit, reported that the vacant store room in the Fisher building would be used for the exhibit and invited all who had heirlooms to get in touch with either of them. They also assured the committee that they had secured the services of the Headquarters Company, P. N. G., and they would provide guards to safeguard the display during the three days of the celebration.

The I. O. O. F. Lodge reported that they were bringing the children's band from the Orphans' home in Meadville for Saturday. The Zenn Temple band of Erie will play a concert on the Atlantic field on Thursday evening and preceding the concert, the Klitke Band of Erie will parade over the streets for forty-five inmates.

Memorial Program At Rose Avenue School On Friday

Students of the Rose Avenue School held their Memorial Day observance Friday afternoon, presented a program of songs and recitations, and heard two speakers representing the American Legion.

The program of the students was handled by Miss Joanna Hood who acted in the capacity of announcer. The opening number was the Salute to the Flag by the school, then "America the Beautiful." The children of 4-A then sang two songs, "The Flag and the Eagle" and "Abraham Lincoln" followed by Miss Francis Kennedy who recited "The Meaning of Memorial Day." She was followed by Katy Buly who gave a pledge to patriotism. A recitation, "Honor the Patriots" followed.

An exercise by boys of the 6-B class, "Famous Men" followed. The boys of 5-A then sang a group of songs, and were followed by boys of 6B in an exercise, "The Meaning of Our Colors." Joanna Hood then recited "Honor the Veterans." A playlet, "The Drummer Boy" provided some amusement and entertainment, and girls of 6-B presented "Memorial Flowers." Jean Chapman recited "The Service Flag" and the entire 6-B class presented "Reverence for the Law."

James E. Moorhead and Bart Richards represented the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343, American Legion and spoke briefly upon Memorial Day and its meaning.

Stanford And Southern Cal. Fight It Out

Two Fine Track Teams From California Fight For I. A. A. A. Championship

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—Instead of the formal, orderly parade to the championship so freely predicted for them earlier in the week, it will be necessary for Stanford's bright young men to get right down there in the dust this afternoon and practically brawl it out with Southern California for the annual track and field championship of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. Stanford may win but not with the 80 points so impulsively conceded the Cardinal before yesterday's trials. In fact, it will gladly take 50 now and ask no indiscreet questions.

Fifty will be the pay-off, they say, but Southern California, the 1932 champion, may be the team to get it. The Trojans came with a rush in yesterday's trials, qualified 14 men against Stanford's 15 and altogether looked the part to do even better when the numbers began going up in earnest today.

Records May Fall
Records, national, intercollegiate, world's all kinds trembled and tottered as the field made ready for this final sortie against gun, watch and tape measure. Bill Bouthron, Princeton, was to do 3:50, they said, to beat the listed world record for 1,600 metres. McNaughton, Olympic champion, Van Corder, runner up, and Spitz, world's record holder, seemed to have the high jump mark at their mercy. "The world's pole vault" record was equally unsafe.

For one thing, there was Bill Graber, U. S. C., who holds the record now. For another, there was Keith Brown, of Yale. He does 14 feet or better every time he starts. For a third, there was Bill Miller of Stanford, the Olympic champion. George Jefferson, U. C. L. A., was there too, to make it one of the greatest four-way finishes on record.

Gehrig And Foxx Suffer Injuries

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 27.—Lou Gehrig of the Yankees and Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics, two of the American League's brightest stars, were nursing painful injuries today.

Foxx had to retire in the second inning of the game with Detroit at Philadelphia yesterday when he twisted his left knee. Gehrig's great endurance record seemed imperiled when he crashed into the ironstands at Yankee Stadium while chasing a foul, but he stayed in the game until the eighth inning.

Foxx is expected to be on the sidelines for several days, but Gehrig plans to return to action today.

Applying Stars For White Sox

Chicago Americans Waging Fight For Pennant, Getting Fine Hitting

PIRATES LOSE TO GIANTS 6-5

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 27.—This is a story of six erstwhile "goats" who played a hero's role in yesterday's big league ball games. Reading from left to right, they are: Luke Appling of the White Sox, "Schoolboy" Rowe of Detroit, Gus Mancuso of the Giants, Babe Herman of the Cubs and "Daisy" Dean and Ernie Ott of the Cardinals.

To provide the proper background, let it be explained how the sextet happened to be goats in the first place. Appling last year was the poorest defensive shortstop in the American league and his batting average was .274, a mere bargain. Rowe, since shutting out the White Sox in his debut in the first week of the season, had been a complete bust with the Tigers. New York fans had dubbed Mancuso "Butter Fingers" because of his sloppy work behind the plate for the Giants. The high-pitched Babe Herman had been getting the razz in Chicago because of his failure to hit. Dean, who talked of winning 40 games, had lost five out of seven for the Cards up to a week ago. Orsatti, who used to double for Buster Keaton in Hollywood, could hardly single for the Cardinals, his batting average being only .236.

Applying Stars

Appling today is the most improved player in the American league, being second only to Jimmy Fox in runs batted in and a tower of strength to the White Sox on the defense. He is hitting over .300 and rarely makes an error. Yesterday he drove in two runs with a homer and a triple as the White Sox battered the Yankees, 9 to 6. Chicago, practically tied with Washington for second place, is only a game and a half behind the Yanks.

Rowe held the Athletics to six hits, winning 10 to 1 and snapping Philadelphia's winning streak of seven games. The Tigers kayeed Ruben Walberg and collected 14 hits, including homers by Hayworth and Greenberg.

Mancuso's homer in the eighth inning gave the Giants a 6 to 5 win over the Pirates and put Pittsburgh's lead to two games.

Babe Herman's homer with one on kept the Cubs in the game and they went on to nose out the Braves in the tenth, 4 to 3. He also made two other hits.

Klein Hits Hard

Dean beat the Phillies in 14 innings, 5 to 4, scoring the winning run himself on Orsatti's hit. Chuck Klein and Virgil Davis made it tough for the Megaphone man by getting two hits apiece. Klein belted a single, a double, a triple and his tenth circuit clout of the year, tying Wally Berger for the lead in the home run derby.

So much for the goats who became heroes. The heroes who became goats included Babe Ruth, who failed to hit in the ninth with the tying run on base.

The Brooklyn Dodgers lost their seventh game in eight starts when Chick Hafey's homer off Van Mungo in the ninth staked Cincinnati to a 3 to 2 win. The Dodgers benched Lefty O'Doul, last year's batting champion.

Senators Win

Washington kayeed George Blaeholder and trounced the Browns 5 to 2, in a game held to seven innings by rain. Whitehill held St. Louis to four hits.

The Red Sox got off to a flying start against Cleveland but barely managed to stagger to the wire in front, 6 to 5.

Stanford And Southern Cal. Fight It Out

Two Fine Track Teams From California Fight For I. A. A. A. Championship

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 27.—Instead of the formal, orderly parade to the championship so freely predicted for them earlier in the week, it will be necessary for Stanford's bright young men to get right down there in the dust this afternoon and practically brawl it out with Southern California for the annual track and field championship of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. Stanford may win but not with the 60 points so impulsively conceded the Cardinal before yesterday's trials. In fact, it will gladly take 50 now and ask no indiscreet questions.

Fifty will be the pay-off, they say, but Southern California, the 1932 champion, may be the team to get it. The Trojans came with a rush in yesterday's trials, qualified 14 men against Stanford's 15 and altogether looked the part to do even better when the numbers began going up in earnest today.

Records May Fall
Records, national, intercollegiate, world's all kinds trembled and tottered as the field made ready for this final strife against gun, watch and tape measure. Bill Bonthron, Princeton, was to do 3:50, they said, to beat the listed world's record of 1:50 meters. McNaughton, Olympic champion, Van Osdel, runner up of Stanford, the Olympic champion, seemed to have the high jump mark at their mercy. The world's pole vault record was equally unsafe.

For one thing, there was Bill Graber, U. S. C., who holds the record now. For another, there was Keith Brown, of Yale. He does 14 feet or better every time he starts. For a third, there was Bill Miller, of Stanford, the Olympic champion, George Jefferson, U. C. L. A., was there too, to make it one of the greatest four-way finishes on record.

Gehrig And Foxx Suffer Injuries

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 27.—Lou Gehrig of the Yankees and Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics, two of the American League's brightest stars, were nursing painful injuries today.
Foxx had to retire in the second inning of the game with Detroit at Philadelphia yesterday when he twisted his left knee. Gehrig's great endurance record seemed imperiled when he crashed into the ironstands at Yankee Stadium while chasing a foul, but he stayed in the game until the eighth inning.
Foxx is expected to be on the sidelines for several days, but Gehrig plans to return to action today.

Applying Stars For White Sox

Chicago Americans Waging Fight For Pennant, Getting Fine Hitting

PIRATES LOSE TO GIANTS 6-5

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 27.—This is a story of six erstwhile "goats" who played a hero's role in yesterday's big league ball game. Reading from left to right, they are Luke Appling of the White Sox, "Schoolboy" Rowe of Detroit, Gus Mancuso of the Giants, Babe Herman of the Cubs and "Dizzy" Dean and Ernie Osratti of the Cardinals.

To provide the proper background, let it be explained how the sextet happened to be goats in the first place. Appling last year was the poorest defensive shortstop in the American league and his batting average of .274 was no bargain. Rowe, since shutting out the White Sox in his debut in the first week of the season, had been a complete bust with the Tigers. New York fans had dubbed Mancuso "Butter Fingers" because of his sloppy work behind the plate for the Giants. The high-priced Babe Herman had been getting the razz in Chicago because of his failure to hit. Dean, who talked of winning 40 games, had lost five out of seven for the Cards up to a week ago. Osratti, who used to be called "Buster Keaton in Hollywood," could hardly single for the Cardinals, his batting average being only .236.

Applying Stars
Applying today is the most improved player in the American league, being second only to Jimmy Foxx in runs batted in and a tower of strength to the White Sox on the defense. He is hitting over .300 and rarely makes an error. Yesterday he drove in two runs with a homer and a triple as the Sox battered the Yankees, 8 to 6, Chicago, practically tied with Washington for second place, is only a game and a half behind the Yanks.

Rowe held the Athletics to six hits, winning 10 to 1 and snapping Philadelphia's winning streak of seven games. The Tigers kayoed Rube Walberg and collected 14 hits, including homers by Hayworth and Greenberg.

Mancuso's homer in the eighth inning gave the Giants a 6 to 5 win over the Pirates and cut Pittsburgh's lead to one game.

Babe Herman's homer with one on kept the Cubs in the game and they went on to nose out the Braves in the tenth, 4 to 3. He also made two other hits.

Klein Hits Hard
Dean beat the Phillies in 14 innings, 5 to 4, scoring the winning run himself on Osratti's hit. Chuck Klein and Virgil Davis made it tough for the Megaphone man by setting four hits apiece. Klein belted a single, double, a triple and his tenth circuit clout of the year, tying Wally Berger for the lead in the home run derby.

So much for the goats who became heroes. The heroes who became goats included Babe Ruth, who failed to hit in the ninth with the tying run on base.
The Brooklyn Dodgers lost their seventh game in eight starts when Chick Hafey's homer off Van Mungo in the ninth staked Cincinnati to a 3 to 2 win. The Dodgers benched Lefty O'Doul, last year's batting champion.

Senators Win
Washington kayoed George Blaholder and trounced the Browns 5 to 2, in a game held to seven innings by rain. Whitehill held St. Louis to four hits.

The Red Sox got off to a flying start against Cleveland but barely managed to stagger to the wire in front, 6 to 5.

County Committee Plans To Add Special Groups To Handle Problems

Appointment of five sub-committees of volunteer citizens to function as a part of the Lawrence County Emergency Relief board will be made within a few days by County Chairman Dr. G. S. Bennett.

Duties of the board will be distributed following their announcement and not concentrated in one group as is now the case, it was pointed out. There will be efforts made to improve the committee's service to the county.

Among the committees are to be a citizens' advisory committee of 15, a health committee, a work project committee, a case committee, a committee on "other forms of relief" and a sixth called social breakage.

Prospective committee members were being asked to serve today, and Mr. Bennett expects to announce them shortly.

The Lawrence County Emergency Relief board itself has been gathering more than twice a month since the "forest army" recruiting work began.

Supreme Court Hands Down Decision In Case Of Smith Against Ice Company

Decision of Judge R. L. Hildebrand in the case of Richard Jack Smith against the Ellwood City Ice Company has been upheld in an opinion received at the prothonotary's office from the supreme court.

The case was one involving damages for personal injuries to Richard Smith, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith, who was severely injured when a truck of the ice company backed over him.

At the time the suit was brought, June 19, 1931, a praecipe directing a summons in assumpsit was filed at the prothonotary's office.

Later, plaintiff asked to amend the summons in assumpsit to trespass. This was resisted on the grounds that no amendment can be allowed which changes the cause of action to one upon which the statute of limitation has already run.

This position was sustained by the lower court and a non-pros. granted. The plaintiff then took an appeal and the opinion just received sustains Judge Hildebrand's decision.

Supreme Court Hands Down Decision In Case Of Smith Against Ice Company

Decision of Judge R. L. Hildebrand in the case of Richard Jack Smith against the Ellwood City Ice Company has been upheld in an opinion received at the prothonotary's office from the supreme court.

The case was one involving damages for personal injuries to Richard Smith, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith, who was severely injured when a truck of the ice company backed over him.

At the time the suit was brought, June 19, 1931, a praecipe directing a summons in assumpsit was filed at the prothonotary's office.

Later, plaintiff asked to amend the summons in assumpsit to trespass. This was resisted on the grounds that no amendment can be allowed which changes the cause of action to one upon which the statute of limitation has already run.

This position was sustained by the lower court and a non-pros. granted. The plaintiff then took an appeal and the opinion just received sustains Judge Hildebrand's decision.

Duties of the board will be distributed following their announcement and not concentrated in one group as is now the case, it was pointed out. There will be efforts made to improve the committee's service to the county.

The entertainment will be one of rather unusual interest, especially to those who have visited Syria. Here for the first time in New Castle will be presented a portrayal of Syrian folk life. The meal will be composed of Syrian viands, cooked in the native fashion, and served as they are served in Syria.

For some time the Syrian people have wanted their own church. Through sacrifice they have purchased a lot on Agnew street and are now endeavoring to raise the building. Although far removed from their native land which includes Phoenicia and Palestine where both Christianity and Judaism were born, the Syrians of New Castle want to worship in their own building and the dinner and entertainment is one means of getting funds.

Major H. C. Hilt is a hunter of no mean ability. Up in his study he has trophies of the chase that include almost everything but a wild elephant and he hasn't got around to that yet. As a rule any story he would tell about hunting would be taken at face value, but he pulled one yesterday that taxes the credulity.

This one happened when he was a youngster, when the only gun around the house was an old muzzle loader which you charged with powder and ball yourself. A bit slow but mighty handy guns.

He and some companions were out hunting birds and spotted a covey of 15 quail, or perhaps they were ring-necked pheasants in a clump of bushes. They had little lead to waste, but lots of powder. The truck was to fire as economically as possible.

Some bright mind suggested that if they packed wheat down the barrel, that it would work just as well as lead so the boys got a hat full of wheat and proceeded to load the old blunderbuss to the nose.

They flushed the covey and as it rose, the major let go with his home made siege gun, smack dab into the middle of the birds. Twelve of them fell to the ground, dead, and the wounded but not severely enough to keep them on the ground.

All of which is another version of casting your bread upon the waters. This bread, or rather wheat, came back in the form of quail on toast.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Among the state policemen we've known have been all sorts of fellows. Athletes, speakers, photographers, but never a singer. At least not one good enough to make his living at nothing else. That is until last night.

Bob Johns was a visitor here, and if you don't know it, is the baritone soloist of the First Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh. Which in itself is some indication of how he can sing. His voice is one of those examples of what Dame Nature can do when she wants to give you a break. Just naturally placed where it should be, and then to that he added a lot of training.

But about this state policeman business. He isn't in the service now, but has an enlistment back of him, some years ago. Before he realized that he had been given unusual talents, he joined the army and saw some of the world. Alaska, the Philippines, and other out of the way spots.

Then a hit in the Pennsylvania State Police, which makes the army life look easy. Then vaudeville, ballad singing, and then serious voice training. And what a voice. Now he sings not only for his supper, but for breakfast, lunch and his automobile. He doesn't do anything else.

Gomer Emery is looking for a baseball field, or a place that can be made into one. Since he took charge of organizing the Legion Junior team, he has been able to get players, equipment and uniforms, but no place to play. Which is just like putting on your bathing suit and having the lake dry up.

It doesn't have to look like Forbes Field, it doesn't even have to be finished off. All he wants is a field large enough to make a baseball diamond where the youngster can play and so far hasn't been able to find one.

Major H. C. Hilt is a hunter of no mean ability. Up in his study he has trophies of the chase that include almost everything but a wild elephant and he hasn't got around to that yet. As a rule any story he would tell about hunting would be taken at face value, but he pulled one yesterday that taxes the credulity.

BY MARSHALL MASLIN

THE DEW OF THE NIGHT

The sun goes out in glory, the day fades away, the long, rich shadows deepen into darkness, and the night is upon the land.

The stars come out. First, a few and then a great crowd of them and looking up, you see them shining sharply against the magnificent purple of the sky. And some of them are blue and some are green and some are crimson, and none of them are intimate and close to men and women of the earth.

Trees stand steady and still and not a leaf stirs in the dim quiet. A dog barks and a cat creeps here and there. A far whistle pierces the night night birds make small chirping noises or a small owl goes screeching past.

And then the dew falls. Unseen, sweet and clean it comes. On the grass, on the bare trees, on the shining roofs of houses, on strolling lovers and lonely wanderers—the dew falls.

Over the sea and the hills and the woods and the desert and the fields comes the dew. Magically out of the night, by the old familiar physics of Mother Nature, the dew comes upon the earth and the world is at peace.

That gracious, silent shower is a blessing to the spirit of men. The day, so shining and so candid, has no miracle like this. Only the night has this fair miracle. Feverish with the day, you bend to the green furniture of the earth and your palms are wet with the quiet rain, and you bathe your hot face and the fever goes.

It is like a fair word to you in trouble. It is the helping hand and the uplifting voice and the strong encouragement from one who understands. It is Nature standing by and comforting. Nature cool and strong, Nature neglectful of all your small frets and worries, Nature solid and imperturbable, Nature your unimpassioned friend. The dew appearing on the sharp surface of things and cool courage arising from your own gooding spirit. One of the good things of our life on this wide earth, the dew of the encompassing night.

"KNEW HIM WHEN"

How often do you put a quietus on praise by remarking, "I knew him when he was just a common workman" or "I knew her when she was a little check girl" or "you know—the lived in the little brown house," thus tending to shut off further conversation in favor of the person.

Do you proceed in the same way whether it be progress made or praise uttered for another.

If so you must have a mean streak in you.

How would you like to work hard reach a position of prominence and have some jealous person allude to your former low station or weakness.

You wouldn't like it.

You did not intend to please when you reflected unfavorably on one who had risen higher in the scale.

Perhaps your own record carries derogatory public opinion and so you are inclined to bitter, unkind remarks when others are praised, even deservedly.

Serious violations of the law cannot be forgotten of course, but more power to that one who has a desire to make amends and actually works a reformation.

A DINNER RECIPE
Dr. George Woodward, a State Senator from the Sixth District of Philadelphia has suggested a Federal recipe for a dinner.

This is the Federal Recipe: take freshly-made income and inheritance and sales taxes, drop into a common pot and bring to a boil. Add tobacco and gasoline. Stir vigorously with the hand of bureaucracy until all tax-payers are coiled. Strain out all dead tax-payers.

Serve one-half the stew on a large federal platter, the other half on 48 smaller platters, each state receiving its share. The only expert knowledge required for this simple dish is to determine the share of each state. If, however, all the taxpayers disappear this awkward question will not arise.

A civilized land is one in which you could live in safety and comfort if it wasn't for mankind.

JOE BULGER GETS A LETTER.

Office of Joe Bulger, Headquarters of Salt Creek, Pa. March 24, 1933.

Dear Mr. Bulger:

If I would not have been so busy as regards some changes which is being had by the government in some laws ecclesiastical which same will affect my business I would have had all the letters which have been written me as regards my letter February 21 in your paper where my plain & unvarnished opinion was given free & gratis as regards the plan to spend a couple of car loads of tax money in improving the Tennessee River.

There is new come to hand & contents noted by me another 4 pages letter from a gentleman & a scholar which lives in Grand Rapids, Michigan. This gentleman seems to agree with my old friend W. Shakespeare Esq. which always claimed that a profit was not dishonorable except in the true, noble & becoming modesty for which your old friend Joe Bulger is noted & robs himself of the time to sit down & take his pen in hand & write 4 (four) pages & quote a basket full of figures to prove that I am right.

Well nobody needs to waste any valuable time writing to prove to me that I am right on account I will anytime concede that fact even before any letter has been wrote. Anyhow too many figures makes me dizzy. I can add them up to make sense. All I care about is the last figure at the bottom of the page & whether it is red or black & especially how much of either.

Anyhow I have wrote to this intelligent gentleman & give him my thanks for being troubled to study my essay. Also Fred it shows that your great family news paper is being read in many distant parts & foreign lands.

I am sending you a copy of this gentleman's letter so that if he is not on the list you can send him a subscription blank & get him signed up for a regular subscriber.

So long.

My Dear Sir:

I am enclosing a copy of an article on government expenditures on the Cumberland river which may appear as a companion piece to a series of six articles on expenditures on the Tennessee river.

The truth is, as you say in the News of February 21st, that such states as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan are being exploited thru "River and Harbors" which is used as a vehicle to wheedle millions for unworthy and wasteful projects.

Yours truly,

"Oh, no," replied the patient. "Not at all."

"Then perhaps, you've been indulging in some rough sport?"

"That's it," said the patient. "I've been blowing bubbles."

Revenue Feature Of Beer Bill Makes Strongest Impression

Probable Attitude Of Court Is Debated, And Some Warnings Are Given That Treatment Of Matter May Affect Success Of Repeal Amendment

National comment on the bill authorizing the sale of 3.2 per cent beer gives high place to its effect on the Federal revenue. The attitude of the Supreme Court is considered important, while some warnings are given that the rational treatment of the beer situation may affect final success of the Amendment repealing prohibition.

"With retrenchment by the Government and the additional revenues obtainable from the 'substantial taxes' on legalized beer," says the NEW YORK TIMES-PICAYUNE, "the road will be opened to a balanced budget and maintenance unimpaired of the nation's credit." That paper also feels that "manufacture and sale of beer will provide employment for many and create a new market for agricultural products." The NEW YORK TIMES avers that the action "is no more for the gratification of beer drinkers than for the disappointment of prohibitionists," and that "it is just another step for the relief of the public finances." The PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL agrees that it "will mean work for thousands, demand for varied materials and products, trade stimulation and heavy additional revenue." The Journal adds that "there is intellect and there is soul in the new attitude of Congress."

"All factors considered," according to the ATLANTA JOURNAL, "the estimate of one hundred and fifty millions of new revenue from this measure appears far from excessive and throws a distinctly hopeful light on the problems of the federal budget and general tax relief." The CHARLOTTE OBSERVER offers the explanation: "The haste with which President Roosevelt took this unexpected step is accounted for by the urgent demand for finding sources of revenue with which to bolster up a bucking budget. The President is determined to bring that unruly monster in line as rapidly as possible."

On the question of State legislation, the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL remarks that "the brewing industry may justly be expected to help in very large measure to get men to work and business moving. That ought to be enough without seeking to draw from it exorbitant sums in the way of taxes. It cannot be two kinds of life preserver. It can be only one or the other. No sane man that of economic restoration. To try to milk it at the same time for huge taxes would mean to make it useless in either direction."

"President Roosevelt was bold and aggressive," thinks the NEW YORK SUN, "but no more so than the country wanted him to be. Leadership that could so nobly and so selflessly lead the country was as last seen in clear outline and unmistakable action. To save so many millions through the economy act, to gain so many millions through the beer act, to conserve so many hundreds of millions through the banking act—these were concrete profits which needed no imagination to appreciate."

"The bill is likely to have short life," in the opinion of the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, which looks forward to the adoption of the new prohibition amendment while the YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLICAN holds that "about all it will do for the thirty until the amendment is repealed will be to tie them over the hot-weather period." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD states that "it holds needed revenue for the government and serves as a genuine intimation of that large amount of the amendment is repealed will be to tie them over the hot-weather period." The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD states that "it holds needed revenue for the government and serves as a genuine intimation of that large amount of the amendment is repealed will be to tie them over the hot-weather period."

"The situation," says the OAKLAND TRIBUNE, "is one to bring words of warning to the more conservative of the wets, opinions from their conservative friends that upon the way the beer is being sold and controlled may be predicated a large part of the opinion which is later to be expressed in conventions. In other words, without discretion and sanity the wets, gaining the beer victory, may hurt their repeal cause."

"It is significant that advice of this kind comes from those who favor both beer and repeal and think they may be caused which will have to be saved from their friends."

"If the brewers and the politicians," according to the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "join forces again and undertake to operate the repeal of beer as it was operated before national prohibition was voted, the drys will have, indeed, the weapon for which they are searching to defeat repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. It was that combination of brew and politician, followed by the domination of politics and Government in many localities by the liquor traffic that really brought about national prohibition."

Similar warning is given by the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, accompanied by advice to the friends of beer to "watch carefully" in this phase of the development.

On a broad sense," records the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "the Supreme Court has inclined to the view that within reasonable limits it is the prerogative of Congress to fix an arbitrary line of demarcation between intoxicants and non-intoxicants. On at least two occasions the court has held that the one-half of one per cent definition laid down by Congress in the Volstead act, did not represent a reasonable limit, and on another occasion did the Court understand to declare that any definition of an intoxicating liquor is in accordance with fact. There is no reason to assume at present that it would charge Congress with exceeding reasonable limits." This position is taken also by the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS and the MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS, but the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL, pointing out that "the brewers themselves made the original charge," says:

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

DO WE OR DON'T WE?
The people of the United States are very much disturbed about the high cost of the Public Schools. The people of the earthquake district in California are particularly disturbed because they only did their school system cost them more than one-half of their taxes, but they did not get value received in their school buildings. In fact the school buildings were the flimsiest structures in the whole earthquake district and yet very imposing.

As a matter of fact, we have ceased to educate children in the public schools in the essentials of education. The children do not know the multiplication table; they cannot spell correctly; they cannot speak the English language correctly, much less speak any other language correctly. What is wrong? Too much diversity of thought, too little knowledge and ability to teach on the part of the teachers.

I mentioned to a teacher recently the lack of knowledge of the multiplication table and she answered me by saying, "We don't believe in making a child memorize; we don't think it wise." Yet this teacher taught in a grade where the children were supposed to receive instruction in grammar—in the use of the King's English. Granting that it was a perfect statement on the part of the teacher, it probably was a correct estimate of her ability. She did not "think" she did not "believe" anything. To be sure this is one of the very common mistakes that all English speaking people make. They do not say, "I believe, no, I believe, yes." They tell you they believe that they do not believe; they reiterate that they do not believe. This is due to imperfect teaching in the schools.

The people of this Nation are a very proud people. They think they know better than the people of every other nation how to do things. We have had for years the best example of "every body thinking in the sample of every body" in the world in the English system. We have seen the work in the English Colony of Canada, where there has not been a bank failure for a long time. Yet their system is not limited.

In the Public Schools they have an example before them of the finest system of public schools in the world—that of Switzerland, where no boy or girl may receive at the expense of the State an education in the high schools or colleges supported by the State unless they have shown their ability to use such an education in the primary and grammar school grades. No Swiss child will be admitted to the high school unless he or she has maintained an average of 85 on the scale of 100 in all of their work in these grades. Failing to maintain that scale, the State will educate them in technical schools where they are taught to be carpenters, machinists, plumbers and what you will. They are given there a real apprenticeship working at a real trade at least eight hours a day. This Nation might, with profit to itself and to its taxpayers, study and imitate the Switzerland school system.

Another, what matters after all. The changing markets rise or fall. Or whether home be large or small?

What matters fortune? Let us face With calmness all that's taking place And try with faith each day to grace.

We have each other and our friends On them all happiness depends; Without them all our dreaming ends.

We can be brave and kindly still Can carry comfort to the ill. And all God's plans for us fulfill.

And rich or poor, high place or low We still have friendship to bestow. On all we neighbors with and know.

Life is not measured after all By market's rise or market's fall; But how we answer ever call.

SAVED FROM ANNIVERSARY FLOOD

WHEN the Shenango river, during the past week or so, reached a stage of some 13 feet, and at the same time a stage that was just about the beginning of flood danger for this city and district, there were many visions of a repetition of the disastrous flood of 20 years ago, when immense damage was done.

But, the anniversary flood did not come.

And, according to the State Water and Power Resources Board, the thing that prevented another disastrous flood, was the near completion of the Pymatuning dam reservoir, a movement that sprung out of the flood of 20 years ago, as one means of preventing a repetition of that flood.

Despite the fact that the Pymatuning dam is not as yet completed, it was sufficient to hold back a tremendous amount of water that fell in the Pymatuning watershed at the head of the Shenango river, there being water held back by the dam that reached a depth of 13 feet over a wide area of the reservoir. And this temporary slaying of a great volume of water that would have come down stream at the highest stage of the Shenango undoubtedly prevented another serious flood here.

It can readily be seen that the completion of the Pymatuning will mean permanent removal of the flood hazard here, one of the principal things for which it was constructed, and for which so much hard work was done by leaders of this city and valley in achieving.

FRENCH VIEW CHANGING

Sentiment in France on that nation's war debt to the United States is reported to be shifting around to a point favorable to payment of the $10,000,000 installment held up by a vote of the chamber last December.

The reasons for this change are a little vague. One is reported to be a desire that France place herself on an equal footing with Great Britain in order to be prepared to suggest that a moratorium be declared on the old annuities pending negotiation of a new settlement. There is growing opposition, too, to France's defaulting with the consequent damage to her credit. Failure to make the $10,000,000 payment is regarded as only a technical default which can still be corrected. If this be paid before the next installment is due June 15, the expectation is held that an extension of the moratorium then will be granted because of the inability of President Roosevelt, under the pressure of other matters, to effect a general settlement before that date.

In the background, however, can be sensed another reason, one which was hinted at by M. Herriot in a recent lecture. "When one thinks of what may happen tomorrow," said the former premier, who all along has been in favor of payment, "our country should no further prolong the cruel misunderstanding with that great democratic nation. For France may again need to appeal to one of the richest sources of material support, as was the case several years ago."

In other words, France sees the possibility of becoming involved in another war and wishes to be in a position to call upon the United States for help.

This reason will not appeal to Americans. The United States will not let sentiment drag it into another European war.

JAPAN AND THE MANDATED ISLANDS

"The mandated islands are ours, and we intend to keep them," says Japan. And to prove the point, at least to their own satisfaction, they claim it was understood that the agreement reached after the World War actually meant virtual annexation of the former German colonies by the Nipponese.

On the other hand, the opinion of the other nations involved in the dispute is that the terms of the mandate compel Japan to return the islands when she resigns from the League of Nations. We have a nice legal question there; one that may lead to almost anything.

Possession may be nine points of the law, but sometimes it gets one into a controversy that is more burdensome and destructive than the possession is worth.

The 1,600 islands are of great value to Japan from the naval standpoint, it is true, but if they get Tokio into a position more unpleasant than the one she now occupies in the eyes of the powers it is questionable if the effort would be worth the price.

AGE OF THE WORLD

There seems to be an eternal and continuous struggle among scientists to figure out the age of the earth. A report of the Smithsonian Institute gives as its opinion that the universe is three billion years old, which would seem to establish a record that not only exceeds all previous guesses hazarded along this line, but which moreover, sets a standard for future jugglers with figures to shoot at as they attempt to out-do their predecessors.

It is not quite clear to most people why it is so necessary to determine the age of the earth. Here and there new evidences are uncovered by expeditions which have been excavating tombs and ancient ruins for the purpose of studying antiquity. But even the most interesting discoveries do not take the present age back more than a few thousand years at best, and whatever took place before that period, perforce must be largely a matter of conjecture.

Von Hindenburg Is Satisfied To Take Back Seat

Former German War Lord And President Hopes To Find Peace And Rest

THINKS HITLER "MAN OF HOUR"

Has Longed For Retirement For Many Years, Still Holds Powerful Grip

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service)
BERLIN, Mar. 27.—Rolling back of his supreme powers to Chancellor Adolf Hitler today brought to President Paul von Hindenburg a feeling of vast relief and freedom.

Approaching the end of his trail, with more than 64 years of strenuous life behind him, the aged chief executive has accepted the transfer of dictatorial prerogatives to the Nazi leader with calm resignation.

Rest and Peace
"Now I can find rest and peace," he remarked. "If God should call me."

President von Hindenburg's calm acceptance of the Nazi dictatorship, International News Service learned from sources close to him, is traceable to his firm conviction that unification of the German people has at least been achieved.

He is deeply impressed by the parades and demonstrations staged by millions of Germans in celebration of the new nationalistic regime.

He sees in them a rebirth of the old German spirit of forcefulness and vigor. With the cares of state shifted to the shoulders of a man just half his age, President von Hindenburg is now content to spend long hours sitting in an armchair in his study, smoking cigarettes and blowing smoke into the air with a self-satisfied smile.

Never Wanted Office
Von Hindenburg never wanted to be president of the Reich. When the war ended he was ready to retire to private life—to live in peace and seclusion on his estate in East Prussia.

But the late Admiral von Tirpitz pleaded with him to take the office. "You are the only man," von Tirpitz said, "who can bring Germany to its feet."

Von Hindenburg now feels that this mission has been realized. He is satisfied he acted correctly in governing his aversion to Hitler, whom he once labeled as "just good enough for postmaster-general."

So far as curtailment of his power is concerned, President von Hindenburg is not worried.

Still Holds Power
While he has been deprived of the right to draft and sign laws and emergency decrees, and will no longer be kept informed of every decision, two vital instruments of power remain in his hands.
One is that of dismissing any and all members of the cabinet and the other is his power to proclaim martial law as commander-in-chief of the army.
Next to the unification of his people this is von Hindenburg's source of satisfaction.
He knows that come what may, he need only don his grey and pink field marshal's uniform and the army, which is his first love, will obey his command.

The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE calls the authorization of wine "something more than a sorry joke on California's grape growers" and a "deceit on the whole nation." This view is upheld by the OSHKOSH DAILY NORTHWESTERN and the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR.

"The action was hasty and without the consideration the matter deserves," in the judgment of the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, while the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER asserts that "one of the contributions of prohibition that must be made permanent is its complete outlawing of the bar-room." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that there should be "safeguards against a recurrence of the old evils" and the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN argues: "The evils of the bar-room were a continuing urge in the industrial effort for prohibition, through the period of war prohibition and in the action that finally brought about the Eighteenth Amendment. The saloon had become a sore in the community, and one of the benefits of national prohibition was recognized, even by many who opposed the policy, as the eradication of the saloon. It was generally agreed that the American people did not want the bar-room to come back."

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For The Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

TELLS OF QUAKE EXPERIENCES

New Castle, March 25.

Editor News:
The writer of this letter, from which I quote, is well known to their many friends and relatives in New Castle, and we are being asked by those we meet, "What News from the McClellands?" We thought it not out of place to send in a copy of extracts from our sister's letter just received.

Dear Brother: I just put off writing, thinking every day the quakes would be over. I know I should have let you know before that we were all safe and sound; but the old adage, "No news is good news," makes us procrastinate. I am sure you will have read the accounts in the papers. No doubt they will exaggerate some, but the truth is bad enough.

Only one resident here, in Santa Ana, and two strangers were killed. Seems marvelous, when we think of what might have been. Almost all the fatalities were caused by rushing out, and falling bricks struck them. In all the cities I think that was true. A few were buried, and many autos were crushed as they stood on streets. We had gone the day before to see the parade of the "Fleet," at San Pedro. (123 naval vessels and 243 airplanes passed in review. A big show but expensive.) Got caught in a traffic jam on the way home. At one time on Anaheim Blvd., in Long Beach, there were four lines of cars for ten or twelve miles solid. At 6:00 p. m. the next day, at the same time and place not a building was standing intact! What a tragedy it would have been, had it come the day before! As it was, the schools were not in session, and at 8 o'clock the streets as free as at any other time in the 24 hours.

Long Beach was the worst hit. Santa Ana is on the margin of the triangular area hit. Orange being outside, escaped entirely. Many times before we thought we felt a slight tremor, but when the real thing comes, we have no doubts.

Scott and I were listening to the "Inaugural Program" on the radio when the first shock came. We felt as though an immense battering-ram had struck the house. We tried to rise, and were knocked down a time or two. I managed to reach the front door, the floor coming up to meet me, by holding on to chairs and door sides. I got out and looked to see the house collapse, but it only rocked for three minutes and still stood. Then we went back in, expecting to see everything loose and smashed. Not a thing down! Not a window broken or a dish! Not even a light globe broken! Minor shakes followed every 5 minutes or so an hour. We ran out from force of habit. No damage was done to us physically, but to property. One story stucco houses stood the best, like most in our part of town.

Chimneys fell or cracked so that they had to be lowered for safety in north part of town, 9 out of 10 are down. The business area suffered worst, as nearly all brick buildings are. All the schools and nearly every church but ours. It is stucco. The U. P. church is also stucco but is severely cracked. Union services were held in park on Sabbath morning and may be again, till people get over the terror of it. The business district was under martial law for 4 days, Legion and National Guard on patrol. Most all rubbish cleared up now, and stores open for business.

Our men hope to get in on some of the reconstruction work. Many buildings will have to be torn down. Court house, city hall, new Masonic Temple (built last year), Elks hall, Y. M. C. A. Library and several banks are damaged.

The man who bought the eight apartment building from Scott told him yesterday, "well, Scott you know how to put up a building." The apartment never showed a crack or lost a brick. After this an engineer's O. K. will be required of every building contractor. Same in Long Beach. Many old faulty structures caused the greatest damage. Many easterners say the experience is not so bad yet as a cyclone or tornado. I am sure no one enjoyed this. We hope we may never have another. The shakes have continued at long intervals and lighter each time. Have had none since yesterday (March 15, noon.) But they just kept us reminded of what we might have had. A light rain fell last night, but the sun is bright this morning.

For twelve hours before the quake came, there was such an ominous stillness and a peculiar gray haze. Ralph remarked to a neighbor, "It surely is earthquake weather." (He had been through one in 1917.) He said also, "something is going to happen." Of course we did not hear him and it came so suddenly. Excuse my shaky hand.

ILLUSION:

A "strong man" once gave public performances in which he stopped a 9 lb. cannon ball shot from a fully charged cannon. The audience gasped when the gun flashed and the human Gibraltar stepped forward out of the smoke uninjured, with the 9 lb. shot in his hands.

EXPLANATION:

The trick lay in the way an assistant prepared the cannon for the performance. He used the regulation amount of powder and wadding, but placed the greater part of the charge of powder ahead of the shot. The cannon ball was propelled only by the small charge behind it which was just sufficient to lob the 9 lb. ball over to the strong man.

It's fun to be fooled —

A performance sometimes staged in cigarette advertising is the illusion that cigarettes are made easy on the throat by some special process of manufacture.

EXPLANATION: All cigarettes are made in almost exactly the same way. Manufacturing methods are standard and used by all. A cigarette is only as good as the tobacco it contains.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

In costly tobaccos you will find mildness, good taste, throat-ease. Smoke Camels critically, and give your taste a chance to appreciate the greater pleasure and satisfaction offered by the more expensive tobaccos. Other cigarettes, we believe, will taste flat and insipid to you forever after.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Mar. 27.—Sequel to a loud and emphatic protest by 250 Sugar Creek township residents who packed Venango county's court room to suffocation, Judge Lee A. McCracken refused to recognize the supervisors' plea for a 17-mill tax, and ordered 14 mills for 1933.

WISE WORDS FROM HER "BABY SISTER".... by Timmie's

OH, SIS, YOU ARE A LOVELY BRIDE!

AND YOU'RE A DARLING MAID OF HONOR, BABS. I'M SO HAPPY. TED AND I ADORE EACH OTHER!

FIVE YEARS LATER

BUT, SIS, WHY SO SERIOUS? AREN'T YOU GLAD I'M ENGAGED? DON'T YOU LIKE MY PHIL?

OF COURSE I DO. BUT MARRIAGE CAN BE SO DIFFERENT FROM WHAT ONE EXPECTS...ROMANCE FADES SO SOON...LOOK AT TED AND ME

SIS, IT'S PARTLY YOUR FAULT. TED HAS CHANGED BECAUSE YOU HAVE. YOU'VE LET YOURSELF BECOME... UNROMANTIC. A LITTLE CARELESS ABOUT HOW YOU LOOK...SOMETIMES EVEN ABOUT "B.O."

OH, BABS, SURELY NOT THAT!

ONLY A HINT AT TIMES. SO WHY NOT TRY MY LITTLE PLAN...BATHE REGULARLY WITH LIFEBOUY? NO "B.O." THEN!

MY BABY SISTER GIVING ME GOOD ADVICE! BUT I'LL DO IT, DARLING. LIFEBOUY FOR ME FROM NOW ON

"B.O." GONE—romance returns!

BABS WAS A PRETTY BRIDE. BUT THE REAL HIT OF THE WEDDING WAS MY WIFE!

TED, STOP YOUR JOKING! I ONLY HOPE BABS AND PHIL WILL BE AS HAPPY AS WE ARE

What's the sensible thing to do about "B.O."?

TAKE CHANCES? Trust to luck you won't offend? NO! "B.O." (body odor) is too serious to trifle with. It's too easy to be guilty and not know it—especially in overheated, stuffy rooms. Play safe always—bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. It's different from ordinary toilet soaps—looks different, smells different, acts differently. Its clean, refreshing, quickly vanishing scent tells you Lifebuoy gives extra protection. Its rich, searching lather purifies and tenderizes pores—effectively stops "B.O."

Complexions clear up

Lifebuoy has helped thousands win new complexion beauty—and keep it! Its creamy, gentle, deep-cleansing lather washes away pore-clogging impurities—makes dull, cloudy skins radiant with new health.

This exclusive second floor plan, sketched from descriptions by a Central Press artist, shows how the Roosevelts live. Servants' quarters and extra bedrooms comprise the third floor.
